

CLINGMAN, CHICAGO PIONEER, DIES AT CHANNEL LAKE HOME

Celebrated Eighty-Third
Birthday Week
Before

Charles William Clingman, Chicago pioneer and prominent in the dry goods circles of the city ten years ago, died last Thursday night at his Channel Lake home, less than a week after his eighty-third birthday. Funeral services were held Saturday from the Strang Undertaking Parlor with interment at Hillside Cemetery.

Mr. Clingman, who had made his home at Channel Lake and Holly Knolls, Ca., since his retirement from business, is best known for his action in 1893 to force the World's Fair of that year to remain open on Sunday. Carrying the suit to the Supreme Court, he was successful in forcing the Fair officials to keep the exposition open seven days a week.

Mr. Clingman was born in Chicago on the site of what is now the intersection of Wells and Monroe Streets. His boyhood home stood where the Palmer House is now located.

During his business career he was associated with Leiter & Co., Field and Leiter and Carson-Pirie and Scott's Wholesale organization and John V. Farwell and Co., occupying the position of general sales manager of the last two.

An active interest in life around him characterized Mr. Clingman. His wife, a sister, Mrs. E. A. Stedman of Santa Fe, N. M., and three children, two sons, Carl S. of Chicago and Dean F. Clingman of Palo Alto, Cal., and a daughter, Mrs. C. W. Pfleger, of Chicago, survive him.

His death was due to complicated causes. Mrs. Theresa Lewis of the Christian Scientist Church was in charge of the funeral services. The Clingmans are well known to Antioch residents as well as the lake population.

Welch, Former State's Attorney, Dies Monday Following Collision

James G. Welch, former state's attorney of Lake County, died Monday at St. Theresa Hospital, Waukegan, following an automobile accident at Green Bay and Belvidere roads last Friday in which he was seriously injured. Death was due to pneumonia which resulted from a punctured lung sustained in the accident, according to Dr. John Foley, his physician.

Welch was widely known in the county, having served from 1916 to 1920 as state's attorney, and prior to that as county supervisor. At the time of the organization of Lake Villa township, he was placed in charge. During the larger part of his public life, he was a Republican, winning the ranks to support James Hamilton Lewis, and remaining a Democrat following that time.

The accident which led to his death occurred when his car collided with a truck on the Green Bay road. All deceased was driving east on the only side road when the smash-up, which place, according to the information of those who arrived on the scene following the accident.

Walkathon Contestants at Cedar Crest Do Walk Away Not on Schedule

Contestants in the Walkathon at Cedar Crest Tavern near Lake Villa overdid the walking act this week when they walked away with the beds provided for them after doing a vanishing act with two barrels of beer and a large supply of pretzels. "Walk" is hardly the verb to use, however, for weary of that mode of travel, the couples who had enrolled for an endurance feat, appropriated a truck belonging to the Kriel management in whose hands the tavern now is, and used it to transport the cots.

The walk-away was ended at Lake Villa when the participants were apprehended by the police. And the Cedar Crest Tavern has announced there will be no more Walkathon.

NINE MORE SIGN RECOVERY CODE

Shortened Hours Create Employment for Some in Locality

Nine Antioch merchants have signed the N. R. A code within the last week, swelling the total number of signers to thirty-seven who have signed their intention of supporting the National Recovery Act.

That the economic life of the community is to benefit by the shortened hour-week which has been adopted by a number of the business firms is apparent from the fact that employment has been given to around a half dozen persons because of the code.

Because Antioch is a resort center, where business is at its height during the summer months, employment as a rule starts dropping off at this time of the year. Merchants predict that a number of employees will be retained this winter because of the shortened hour schedule.

Merchants who signed the code this last week were:

First National Bank
J. E. Sibley and Son, Contractors
Roy L. Morris Service Station
Hennings Newstead
Lux Electrical Shop
J. B. Dickson Tire Shop
Antioch Ford Garage
Antioch Packing House
Antioch Cafe
John J. O'Connor Hotel, Grass Lake.

HUNTING LICENSES ON SALE AT CLERK'S OFFICE; FOUR SOLD

Season Closed on All Game
Except Blackbirds, etc.

Four hunting licenses were sold this week with their arrival at the office of Village Clerk Roy L. Murrell, from whom resident and non-resident licenses can be secured the year around. Licenses will also be available at the stores of local hardware dealers.

The season is now closed on all types of game except sparrows, crows, blackbirds and similar birds which are legitimate hunting the year around. Hunters must have a license to shoot these birds according to state game regulations.

Action to open the season on ducks and similar game in the middle of September was not taken up by the last legislature as was hoped by resort operators in this area. Opening the season Sept. 15 would give resorts two extra weeks of business at the close of the summer vacation period. Duck shooting, as provided by federal regulation, opens Oct. 1.

Open season on mourning doves starts Sept. 1 and extends over the one month period. The squirrel season also opens on that date in this zone and extends over a three month period.

Regulations under the state department of conservation require that hunters carry a license when they carry a gun. Resident licenses are priced at $1 and non-resident licenses at $15.50.

Farmers Apply for Contracts To-Night

Meeting Has Been Called for 8:30 at High School

Farmers of Antioch Township will be given an opportunity this evening at the High School to make application for a wheat allotment contract which offers, as compensation, a 28 cents benefit payment from the government. The meeting will be held at 8:30 o'clock.

Under terms of the contract, the grower is allotted a definite number of bushels figured on the basis of his total production for the years, 1930, '31 and '32. As a general rule, H. C. Gilkerson, county advisor has explained, the allotment will be 54 per cent of his average production during those three years.

There may be cases, he continues, where adjustments will have to be made in the three-year average in figuring allotments. Farmers who feel that their allotment would be based on a five year instead of a three year average will be given an opportunity this evening to present their cases.

The more evidence a grower can bring to the meeting to support his application, the stronger his case will be, according to authorities of the extension service, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois. Evidence may include threshermen's certificates, elevator certificates and similar documents.

Mr. Gilkerson estimates an addition to farm buying power of $15,000,000 if all wheat growers sign the contracts. Any person who is operating a farm on which wheat has been grown during the three years beginning with 1930 is eligible to apply for the contract and receive the compensation.

Merchants Send Tax to Chicago Tuesday

Antioch merchants wrestled Tuesday with the sales tax forms to be filled out and filed that day with the Chicago office for the first month during which the 2 per cent tax on retail sales has been effective. Confusion over what constitutes tangible property and what is "services" and other points delayed retailers in determining their tax for this first period.

In Chicago, Monday, the first arrest for a sales tax violation was reported when a south side clothing was brought into court on the charge of adding the tax to the purchase price. The defendant was dismissed, the judge ruling that "it is not generally known as yet that the tax is to be borne by the merchant and not the consumer."

Agitation for the establishment of a county bureau of the government's Home Owners' Loan corporation office where local people might apply instead of at the Chicago office, has been started recently by applicants for loans. AN ANNIVERSARY

With the publication of this issue, The Antioch News enters its forty-eighth year as a community organ of information and record. During the years of its existence, which are now closely approaching the half century mark, remarkable changes have taken place in the village and township of Antioch as well as in the newspaper.

To refrain from pointing out that The News has been responsible for the progress of the community as much as the community has been responsible for the financial support of The News, would be undue modesty. The weekly newspaper, as much as the churches and schools and other civic organizations, contributes consistently to the welfare and growth of its immediate locality.

But the benefits which come of the "hometown paper" are not always recognized by those who share them. In the early days of our country, when a "free press" was a prohibited privilege, valiantly and staunchly sought, the press of today would have seemed a miracle.

A century and a half, more or less, of a press which has developed from a censored sheet through the various stages of narrowness, and political dominance until it has become the modern newspaper of today, have blinded the readers to the service of newspapers.

There is no phase of community life which is not benefited by the newspaper, and no phase which would not be materially injured if the newspaper ceased publication. This is true, not only in this community, but in all communities where a serious and intelligent effort is made to give the people a readable, unbiased and informative record and interpretation of the local events.

Politically, the newspaper of any merit, long ago ceased to force its opinions on the readers, excluding the opinions of others. But the newspaper has not retired from the field of government for it awaits with an eagle eye any trespasses upon the liberty and rights of the voters. A verse in the New Testament, "I have set thee as Watchman," is an admonition which American newspaper publishers have accepted as their own. The lengths to which corrupt officials might have gone, in the past few years without the ever-ready publicity of newspapers, are unlimited.

But the newspaper has an equally important task of inspiring unity and co-operation among its readers. It is the newspaper which creates confidence in the services of local officials, local professional men and local merchants. It is the newspaper which most readily brings the common good of the community before the residents. It is the newspaper which creates from a settlement of unlike, and unrelated families, an integral unit, bound together despite differences in religious creed, class, education, wealth and talent.

In the early stage of man's development, news was already an established index of civilization. News in those days was carried from tribe to tribe by word of mouth and later, written on clay tablets and papyrus. Though the dissemination of news has had its part to play in the development of all periods of our history, in those days when it rose from whispered rumors, it was least significant.

Today the established newspaper, no matter what the size of the community, is one of the most stable products of our civilization. Free in thought, to a varying degree unbiased, it is the mouthpiece of the people in spreading facts, not gossip. It is not a fly-by-night enterprise, for the reliable newspaper which is faithful and dependable, in most cases, remains an institution in the community, as long as the community exists.

For forty-seven years The Antioch News has been among the community institutions in this country which have furthered the cause of democracy and of fellowship. Already nearing its golden anniversary, it will doubtless celebrate its diamond jubilee. What advancements will succeed through its promotion, what changes it will further, are questions which will be answered as its history unfolds. But, undoubtedly, in the future as in the past, it will continue to be like our schools and churches, a institution yielding endless, if intangible, public benefits.

BUILDING FOR TOMORROW

The New York Times editorially suggests that some of the public works money might profitably be spent for scientific investigation, and points out that work done in laboratories is, in the long run, often the best maker of jobs of all.

That is an excellent suggestion. The government is to spend hundreds of millions in construction projects which, once accomplished, will have ended their usefulness so far as providing substantial employment is concerned. Why not spend a little in seeking to produce new industrial wells from which permanent jobs may eventually be drawn? Entirely new jobs, rather than temporary employment to be followed again by unemployment or overcrowding of existing industry, is what our country really needs.

Toad Cries Like Child

The appearance of the hermaphrodite toad near Ansonia, Conn., recently was a source of woe to the residents, but a cause of joy to Yale scientists.

The spadefoot has eyes like gold and a cry like a spoiled child. A number of these toads elected to settle in Hitchkiss Pond and start up a deafening clamor. After a week of the noise, the scientists were called.

According to Dr. Stanley C. Ball, curator of zoology at the Peabody Museum, the first of these curious creatures were seen in the South and have been seen since in nearly all of the Atlantic and Gulf states. They appear after a long warm rain, lay their eggs and then disappear, leaving no trace of their hiding place. Their name is derived from the fact that they have horny spurs on their feet to aid in digging.—Pathfinder.

ROBBERS INVADE THE WISCONSIN RESORT AREA OVER WEEKEND

Hold up Guests at the Nippersink Lodge, Wilmet Tavern

Investigation is being launched this week into two daring robberies perpetrated in the southern Wisconsin resort area over the week-end. The first took place at the Nippersink Country club at Twin Lakes early Saturday evening, the loot being about $500 in cash. The other a few hours later at Rudolph's Wilmet tavern, where the father of the proprietor was slugged unconscious and the cash register rifled.

Quiet Affair

Despite reports that were circulated early in the week, the holdup at Nippersink was carried on quietly and without screaming or shooting. The seventy-five guests and cottagers being entertained there willingly obeyed the commands of the gunmen and after they had driven away in their Lincoln sport roadster, the cool-headed patrons and patronesses notified the police and then continued the gaiety of the evening. The grounds at the lodge are now being very closely patrolled and will be for the remainder of the season in order to prevent the occurrence of a similar episode.

Circumstances and the description of the gunmen indicate that those who held up the Wilmet tavern might have been a part of the gang that perpetrated the robbery at Nippersink.

Rudolph Struck

As the gunmen entered the tavern, the frightened patrons were ordered to lie down, while one of the robbers rifled the cash register. Frank Rudolph, who was behind the bar when the trio came in, edged out into the room and swung at the gunman attempting to follow Mrs. Rudolph who had dashed into the kitchen carrying the money that had been removed from the cash register a short time before. His blow knocked the man down.

Another bandit, reversing his gun, struck Rudolph over the head. Several blows sent him to the floor. After they had taken the money from the cash register, the robbers backed out the front door and fled in their automobile.

As soon as the men were gone, the alarm was sent to the office of the Kenosha county police and Dr. Harry Beebe, of Antioch, was called to treat Mr. Rudolph, who was not seriously hurt.

SHINNER POOL TO BE DEDICATED ON LAKE TOMBEAU

Water Carnival Will Be the Main Feature of the Program

Dedication of the Shinner portable all-steel floating swimming pool, the only structure of its kind in America, which last week was installed in Lake Tombeau, just off the grounds of the picturesque Nippersink Country Club, will take place Sunday afternoon, it was announced from the office of the clubhouse this morning. Elaborate arrangements are being made for a water carnival, which will be the feature of the dedicatory program.

Hundreds are expected to assemble on the shores of Lake Tombeau Sunday to witness the ceremonious floating of the pool to its permanent position and its sinking. Water will be let into the bottom and top of the pool. The large pipes around the top and at the water edge are the compartments which can be filled with water or pumped out as changes in its carrying capacity are required.

Equipped with Steel Mesh

In order to prevent damage by ice, the pool will be floated to its present position in the winter. The rigid frame of the pool is covered with steel mesh to allow free circulation of water. The steel mesh in the bottom is covered with composition rubber to provide a smooth bottom for the pool. The floor is sloping, similar to indoor regulation pools, so that both children and adults can enjoy the sport. A diving board will be located at the deep end and an upper deck is provided for those who like sunbaths.

Plans indicate the pool can accom-

With new buildings, with new features, with more money for premiums than ever before, the annual Lake County fair will open at Libertyville, September 1, and for the first time in its history will run over Saturday. Special features are Children's day, and derby day.

Saturday was a try out of the new primary law and the complete returns from Antioch township are given below. The total vote cast was 180 in the first precinct and 140 in the second. The democrats cast 19 votes all told. W. H. Osmond received the nomination for the Democratic precinct committeeman in the second and J. C. James and J. J. Morley were tied for the same in the first.

The first annual Masonic ball given by Sequoit Lodge will be held in the Antioch opera house Friday evening, August 21. Supper will be served by the Eastern Star.

The Woodman picnic on Thursday last was a decided success and was attended by a large crowd coming both from Antioch and from a distance. The day was an ideal one for a picnic and was thoroughly enjoyed by all. The boys' race was won by Thomas Cronin and the girls' by Ivah Radtke. Earl Somerville was first in the sack race and H. A. Radtke won the fat man's race. The unmarried men's race was won by L. I.

modate 150 people standing on the promenade. Cement anchors in the lake will keep the pool stationary. It will be illuminated for night bathing and is expected to present a gay spectacle with its umbrella tables and lounging chairs.

Five Thousand Dollars Cost

Representing an original cost of $5,000, the pool is the invention of E. G. Shinner, president of the E. G. Shinner Chain store company, of Chicago, and one of the principal advantages offered those who make use of it is the protection against various pests that exist in salt water and infest swimming beaches. Mr. Shinner told the Wisconsin Resorter in an interview today. This is made possible because of the wire mesh.

Indications are that there will be a nation-wide sale of this invention, according to Mr. Shinner. It is now being manufactured by the Graver Tank Manufacturing company, of East Chicago, Ind., on a royalty basis.

The judges of election were called together on Monday to decide the tie vote on the democratic ticket for precinct committeeman in the first precinct between J. C. James and J. J. Morley, and decided in favor of the latter.

The statement is in general circulation that the first issue of a dry paper will make its appearance in Waukegan September 1. Its policy will be dry it is stated, but at the same time, it will be an organ of general news. It is said that many shares of stock have already been sold.

The moonlight picnic on Douglas Lawn, Thursday evening was a success. Two hayrack loads left Lake Villa. The second broke down, making everyone walk. On Saturday a party from the Lake Villa Hotel went sailing on Cedar Lake and the strong breeze capsize the boat. None of the party could swim, and had it not been for the heroic work of rescuers, fatalities would have undoubtedly resulted. As it was, nothing more serious than a good ducking was experienced.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Soul" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 13.

The Golden Text was, "My soul thirsteth for God, for the living God" (Psalms 42:2).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "And now, Israel, what doth the Lord thy God require of thee, but to fear the Lord thy God, to walk in all his ways, and to love him, and to serve the Lord thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul, to keep the commandments of the Lord, and his statutes, which I command thee this day for thy good?" (Deut. 10:12, 13).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Man walks in the direction towards which he looks, and where his treasure is, there will his heart be also. If our hopes and affections are spiritual, they come from above, not from beneath, and they bear us up to the fruits of the Spirit" (p. 451).

Rural Highways to Benefit From Public Roads Bureau Research

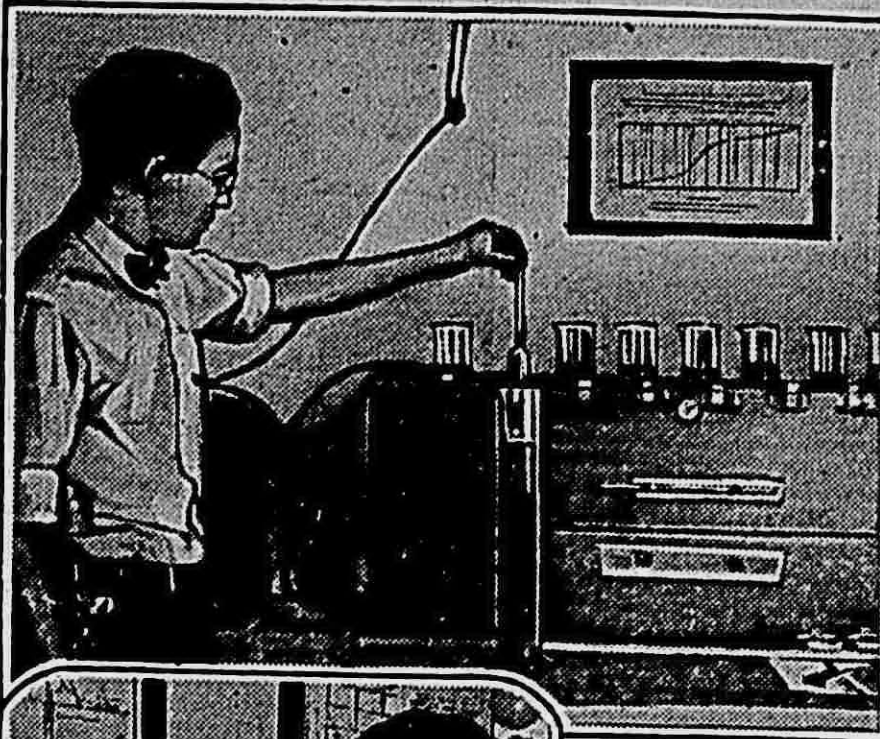

THE long-held aim of "getting the farmer out of the mud" promises to be brought materially closer to realization through the application of a very considerable part of the $400,000,000 federal road fund to the secondary highway system. The United States Bureau of Public Roads will have heavy responsibilities in the expenditure of the fund, and it is fortunate that research conducted by the Bureau provides the basis for the construction and improvement of low-cost roads that will both get and keep the farmer out of the mud without imposing an unjustifiable tax burden for maintenance.

The Bureau's research, conducted in its test laboratory at Arlington, Virginia, across the Potomac from Washington, has covered characteristics of the ground beneath the surface which are important to the design, construction and maintenance of highways. It has also covered the problems of highway surfaces, with a view to the use of chemical and physical admixtures to provide low-cost roads with surfaces that will stand up under traffic and can be maintained at low cost.

Low-Cost Highway Surfaces
The surface condition of clay, sand-clay and gravel roads depends largely upon the degree of cohesion possessed by the clay or other material that acts as the binder or "glue." This in turn largely depends upon the presence of sufficient moisture, for it is the moisture films between the particles and not the particles themselves that provide the "glue." The value of chemical admixtures in maintaining cohesion has been shown by the use of calcium chloride, a white, flaky substance which slows down evaporation and prevents the drying out of the moisture without which the surface tends to disintegrate.

Spread upon the surface, the first rainfall carries it down to the sub-surface soil. With the re-appearance of the sun, evaporation of the surface moisture begins but is replaced by the rising of the calcium chloride solution. Evaporation continues only up to the point at which, due to the calcium chloride, the solution will no longer evaporate. At the next rain, the same process takes place with the result that cohesion is steadily maintained.

Sub-Surface Soils Study
The foundation of a road is as important as the foundation of a building. In the case of roads of all kinds this foundation is provided by the sub-surface soils. The Bureau of Public Roads' program of sub-surface research has included all of those soil constituents which are of importance in determining the reactions of different soils under varying conditions of load, moisture and temperature. This has involved test-

Taking an hydrometer reading of a soil sample dispersed in distilled water. One of the steps necessary to determine the proportions of sand, silt, clay and other substances.

The compression test, during which soil samples are subjected to pressures equivalent to those imposed by a heavily loaded truck.

of soil samples from all parts of the United States. One of the fundamental tests is an analysis to discover the proportions of sand, silt, clay, and other substances which the soil contains. This involves a lengthy laboratory procedure, including hydrometer readings of a soil sample dispersed in distilled water. The readings are taken over a period of 24 hours. At the conclusion of the analysis it is possible to determine, by employing complex mathematical formulae, not only the proportions of all the different soil substances, but the actual size of their particles.

The "Liquid Limit" Test
The "liquid limit" test determines the maximum amount of moisture which the soil can hold without losing stability to a harmful degree. This liquid limit varies greatly with different soils and is of great importance in determining the extent to which capillary and other moisture will seep into the soil. While all soils require a certain amount of moisture for cohesion, too much moisture will have the same effect upon them as will too much moisture upon a handful of damp sand.

A compression test, in which a sample of the soil is subjected to loads comparable to those a heavily loaded truck would impose, determines the resistance to pressure from above, the resistance to lateral flow, or spreading out, under such pressure; and the expansion of tendency to take up water after being compressed.

The knowledge which these and other tests make available, enables the highway engineer to know in advance how the soils which he must work with will react under varying conditions of moisture, pressure and climatic changes. If the soils are deficient in certain qualities, they indicate what materials should be added, and in what proportions. They tend to give the highway engineer the same degree of exact knowledge about his soils, as the structural engineer possesses concerning steel and stone.

Five strike outs were made by Bown, with Crabtree, the Lake Geneva pitcher making seven. Nelson, Schneider, Keulman, Murphy and Christensen scored the runs for Antioch.

In a game against the Edison Square team of Waukegan last week, the Aces were also winners, piling the score up to a 12-6 victory. The team will play Fox Lake's Merchants, there, next Sunday and a game with the Fossland team of Wadsworth is scheduled for the following week.

HintsCakes and Puddings and Pie Include
Endless Variety for End of Meal

In some families it's the vegetables which always have a "same-ness," in other families, it's the meat, and in still others, it's the dessert of which everyone complains to the cook, "It's always the same."

Desserts may vary widely from day to day, even though they must keep within the budget. Pies, puddings, cakes, fruits and various pastries are included among lists of appetizing sweets which will satisfy the appetites of exacting families.

But desserts made from a small dozen or half dozen recipes, may dig a rut for the housewife, from which she never sees the alluring, tempting dishes to be tried.

Taking puddings, which are perhaps the least popular form of dessert as a class, there are custards, rice puddings, chocolate pudding, corn starch and tapioca pudding, fruit puddings, such as date and plum pudding, bread pudding, puddings which are elaborate, and puddings which have little to recommend them at all.

Pudding Extras

Decorations, a hard sauce, lemon or caramel sauce, a sprinkling of coconut, a few chopped nuts, may change the entire status of the pudding from a wash day, hurry up dish, to a pleasant surprise. Raisins and dates may often be added to puddings, and whipped cream, sometimes will add an unsurpassable elegance.

Pies are a step up in the line of desserts, but pies require time and skill, however, not a skill which cannot be acquired by practice. Pies divide into classes and types as well as puddings. There are juicy berry pies, not so juicy pies made from solid fruits, custard pies, cream pies, flavored and unflavored, pies with one crust, pies with two crusts, pies with meringues and pies with whipped cream.

Custard pies, for the families who like them are healthful, especially if an egg custard is made. A dash of coconut, and the pie becomes coconut custard. Lemon pies are delicious, especially when they are made with the new recipes which add gelatin for firmness.

Back to Old Days

The good old-fashioned apple pie may become an old favorite in a new guise, if one turns back to colonial days. Dixie Deep Dish Apple Pie is made without a top crust. It is served cold with a generous layer of whipped cream over the top. Colonial apple pie has a brown sugar covering over the top. Cheese may be sprinkled over the crust to add piquancy to ordinary apple pie.

Gooseberry pie has all the advantages to be gained from sweetened tartness and dripping juiciness. It must be sweetened more than any other pie filling. Blueberries, cherries and peaches are good summer fillings. In winter, dried apricots and peaches may also be used as well as fruits which have been canned.

Chocolate pie, like chocolate pudding, is likely to be popular in most households for the reason that chocolate is always popular as a flavor. Black walnuts add interest to chocolate pie.

Pumpkin and sweet potato pies belong to fall. In the south, particularly the latter is a favorite. The filling is made of cooked sweet potatoes to which spices and sugar have been added. Cheese will add to a pumpkin pie as much as it does to the apple pie.

Old Time Favorites

Turning from pies to cakes, again there is variety and deliciousness from which to choose. Gingerbread, again a favorite of our grandmothers, includes so many types of cakes and cookies, that this dessert earns for itself a name for inconsistency.

There is hard, thin gingerbread, which is an ideal accompaniment to that last cup of coffee or the afternoon cup. There is thick, sticky gingerbread fresh and moist to be eaten with apple or rhubarb sauce. And there is gingerbread so light that it crumbles to the touch, which is served topped with whipped cream.

There are frosted cakes, layer cakes, loaf cakes, fruit cakes, cakes decorated with nuts or coconut or bananas or raisins or dates. There may be custard fillings between layers, frostings made of brown sugar or by a fudge recipe, frostings left fluffy by the addition of white of an egg. Orange juice makes an excellent frosting flavoring, especially for angel food cakes. A little of the orange rind may be grated in the frosting. Lemon is also a good flavoring.

Fruit Desserts

Cake, if it is to be served alone, should be rich and well frosted. Cake may be served with fruit, with sauce, with frozen desserts, with fruit drinks, with almost everything which is neither heavy nor rich.

Green Peppers and Tomatoes Will Make
Variety of Dishes

Green peppers and tomatoes are the basis or among the ingredients of many a delicious dish—dishes which will add variety to the table these late summer days and this fall.

Peppers are usually considered a vegetable or spice which is to be used sparingly, but peppers which are stuffed are delicious. Ground beef, a mixture of rice, onion and tomatoes, and ground ham, make excellent pepper fillings. Seeds should be removed from the peppers after the tops have been cut off. Pack them with the stuffing, and fit the tops back on. Then place in the oven in a casserole with the bottom covered with about an inch of water. Bake until thoroughly tender.

Green peppers can also be used for delicious flavoring, and don't forget, that stuffed with chow chow relish, made by your favorite recipe, they are excellent canned.

Slices of the pepper can be added to macaroni dishes, scrambled eggs, omelets, salads and meat loaves. It is also delicious, cut in rings for garnishing cottage cheese.

Tomatoes placed on the table throughout the summer months, still offer new methods of serving. Tomatoes for salads have perhaps become an old story, but have you tried hollowing tomatoes out and stuffing them with egg or fish and celery salad? Both combinations are excellent, and chicken may be substituted for the tuna fish, or crabmeat.

Fried tomatoes are something served in few homes which almost everyone will like. The tomatoes are sliced, lightly doused with flour, and fried in butter or drippings until they are slightly browned. These are excellent with a beef meal.

Escalloped tomatoes, made in a casserole, is a more common dish. To the tomatoes are added cracker crumbs or broken crackers in layers with dabs of butter and a sprinkling of cracker crumbs distributed over the top. Salt and pepper is added, or sugar may be substituted for the pepper, according to the taste.

Tomatoes may be served stuffed, much like the peppers. When stuffed with meat, a slice or two of the pepper may be added. A meat substitute dish, left-over from the war, calls for tomatoes hollowed out and stuffed with rice and peanuts.

Tomatoes, like peppers, are an excellent food to combine with those two good old stand-bys, bacon and eggs. In an omelet both may be added with chopped bacon, and the result is that magnificent concoction known as Spanish Omelet. They may be added to plain scrambled eggs for something new, or served with chopped, hard boiled eggs as a salad.

If you like goulashes, for out-of-doors or informal home meals, mix tomatoes and sliced pepper plentifully with a can of corn, or two cups of corn cut from the cob, a pound of hamburger, two eggs, four slices of bacon, and cook the mixture together. The resulting flavor is worth the mixing—that is if you're not too conventional about your food.

Patent to Be Popular
With Satins This Year

Patent leather, at least for early fall wear, will be worn this season, because of the prevalence of satin which requires a high finish shoe fabric or leather. Its wear will be restricted entirely to dress, however.

cake will fill in to make the perfect dessert.

Fruit desserts are a summer dish which need not entirely disappear from the menu in winter. During the "in-season" months, peaches, plums, pears, melon, and cherries, may be served with apology to no one, in their native state, sliced in the case of peaches, halved in the case of melons, but otherwise unadorned. When fresh fruits are no longer available, fruit gelatines, fruit salads to which a dressing of whipped cream, mayonnaise or French dressing are added and fruits for shortcake fillings, may be included on the dessert end of the menu.

Cookies are a dessert not to be scorned, and candy is another. When planning a meal for a particularly gloomy day, include fresh fudge or pinchoke for dessert and watch your family react.

Wrinkleless Lingerie
Is Latest Wrinkle

New in the line of lingerie is a knitted elastic fabric which is fashioned in vests, panties and combinations and clings to the figure as though it were part of the skin. In cost it is slightly higher than lingerie of ordinary grade, but its skin hugging quality is considered worth the price. It has a second advantage of tugging easily, requiring no ironing.

Talcum powder dusted over light shoes after they have been cleaned will leave a smooth finish to which dirt and dust will not stick.

Canned Peaches and Tomatoes Are Desirable
for Economy and Taste

Within the next few weeks the canning season for peaches, and then tomatoes, will be at the height. Canned peaches are a welcome aid to winter menus in homes where economy is necessary and homes where it isn't. Peaches are delicious for salads and desserts.

Tomatoes are valuable in the daily winter menu, not only because they are appetizing, but because they offer excellent food values as well. Tomatoes to be cooked or the table, and strained juice of tomatoes for soups and cocktails, are a wise investment of time.

Those who maintain that the cocktails, bought at the grocery store already prepared, are better than the home-made variety, have not experimented with mixing their own. Lemon juice, Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper, all added in small quantities will make home canned tomato juice, the best of tomato cocktails.

Boiling Water and Sugar
Make Canning Grapejuice
Task for Mere Children

A simple discovery in canning, made within the last few years, makes the canning of grape juice, child's play, which is good news in households where there is a fondness for grape flavoring or for chilled or warmed grapejuice during the winter months.

Take your Concord grapes, strip them from the stems and wash them carefully. Pour a full cup of grapes into a pint jar, then add a cup of sugar and pour over both a cup of boiling water and seal. This juice will not allow much diluting, and if a stronger mixture is desired, the quantity of grapes and sugar should be increased alike.

Make Shifts and Home
Remedies Are Aids With
Unruly, Fly-Away Hair

Hair which is stubborn, which is on the borderline between having and not having a permanent, which persists in straggling and generally preserving a position at odds with the world, is trying almost past endurance to most women. But home remedies and make shifts can often overcome a great deal between trips to the hair dresser.

Dressing the hair to a certain extent, after it has been combed at night, is one valuable aid. After combing out the hair, and preferably giving it a few upward strokes with the brush, push each wave upward into place, using the fingers and the comb to arrange the wave. Then flatten the waves to the head with bobby pins. If the hair is in the turn-up length, and is unruly, roll it loosely all the way across the back, pinning down the roll. If the underneath hairs are too short to permit this, roll the straggly hairs on an orange stick or a hairpin, and pin them to the head.

Brilliantine or hair oil, used with discretion and with the aid of an atomizer, will make dry, brittle, fly-away hair less difficult to keep in place. Wave set, used by the woman who has some skill in setting her own waves is also an aid with difficult hair.

Wine, Green, Brown and Black Are Best
Colors for Fall Wear

Fall will set the return of deep rich shades. Olivet green, wine, navy and a brilliant blue and brown and black will be most commonly seen. Brown, black and green will be the popular coat colors, and are to be seen already in the early fall hats. Wine, so far this season has taken precedence over the popular rust shades which were worn so much the past two years.

Fossilized bones of a four-toed horse and a coryphodon—an animal resembling a hippopotamus—have been unearthed near Laramie, Wyo.

Retailers Group Agrees Ads Were Best During Slump

Executive Says Newspapers Were Most Effective in Past 3 Years

Newspaper advertising proved the most effective and productive medium for sales appeal to the public during the past three depression years, it was agreed by several hundred members of the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishings Dealers, in convention early this week at the Hotel Sherman, Chicago.

Adherence to an advertising code as well as the N. R. A. code was advised by Salem N. Baskin, president of the Baskin Stores who said in part: "When merchants quit thinking of advertising in terms of individual ads and take the larger view of an advertising program stretching over a season, over a year, and over a period of years, they will begin to see its possibilities. After having bumbled with advertising patiently, painstakingly and consistently over a period of years, they will have accumulated enough good-will momentum to carry them comfortably through periods of depression."

"Formulate a set of rules and then adhere to your code. This means that if you think far enough ahead you will have the money and be otherwise equipped to launch a thoroughly rounded, completely organized, well timed and well directed series of advertising programs."

Orpheum Theatre Opens With New Policy

Excellent vaudeville and first run pictures are features which are attracting large numbers of persons from Antioch and vicinity to the Orpheum theatre at Kenosha following its reopening under new management last Saturday evening. Under the policy, introduced at the time of the reopening, vaudeville will be run in connection with the picture bill Saturdays, Sundays and Mondays. The house, which seats 1,400 people, has been completely redecorated and in beauty and appointments compares favorably with theatres in larger cities. The theatre is under the management of Edward Benji. Featured acts in the vaudeville program this week-end are "Edward's Happy Hoboes" and "The Ten Musical Merry Makers," while on the screen Ginger Rogers and Norman Foster appear in "Professional Sweetheart." Thursday and Friday of this week "Big Brain," featuring Phillips Holmes, Fay Wray and George Stone is the principal attraction.

Mrs. Stevens Dies of Fatal Burns; Burial Held at Hillside Here

Mrs. Susan Jenkinson Stevens, 86 years old, a former resident of Antioch, died of fatal burns last Friday at the St. Therese Hospital, Waukegan. Funeral services were held Monday afternoon in Waukegan, with interment at the Hillside Cemetery here. The Rev. Philip T. Bohl officiated at the grave.

Mrs. Stevens received the burns while she was making tea for an afternoon caller at her home in Waukegan. A towel, used to lift the teapot from the stove, caught fire, and spread to her clothing before her falling eyesight had observed the disaster. She died soon after.

Born in Dublin, Ireland, she came to this country when two years old, and had resided at Antioch and Waukegan the last thirteen years of her life. She is survived by her husband, Homer Stevens, oldest veteran of the Grand Army of the Republic living in Waukegan, two sisters and two sons.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon from the Strang Funeral Parlor with the Rev. C. J. Hewitt officiating. Interment was at Angola Cemetery, Lake Villa. Mr. Curl was born in New York State, but had been a resident in this locality for a number of years. He retired from his farming 10 years ago. A brother, John, of Chicago, survives him. He was a widower at his death.

ANTIOCH HIGH SCHOOL HAS LOW PER CAPITA COST, PETTY REVEALS

List of Eight in County Shows Decreases in Expenditures

Antioch Township High School showed the lowest per capita cost during 1932-33 among nine township high schools in Lake County, according to figures recently compiled by W. C. Petty county superintendent of schools.

A decrease in cost from the year before was revealed in the expenditures of all schools listed except Elia and Libertyville. Antioch, with a per capita average of $125 was the lowest on the list, a place held by Libertyville last year. Waukegan was next to Antioch for low cost in high school education.

A reduction of $42.21 in costs of last year from the year before was made by the Antioch School authorities. The schools with their costs as submitted by Mr. Petty are as follows:
